

I think it is wrong to allow one company to monopolize everything. One reason I like Sonic.net is their close contact with the user and their willingness to get DSL to their customers.